Item 2.02. Results of Operations and Financial Condition.

Union Pacific Corporation (the Company) provided an update today on its expectations for full-year 2018 operating ratio performance. On November 29, 2018, the Company stated that it did not expect its full-year operating ratio to improve as compared to full-year 2017 due to slowing revenue growth and higher costs associated with employee severance and operational inefficiencies.

The Company now expects to report a record full-year 2018 operating ratio of 62.7%, a 0.1 point improvement from its 2017 adjusted non-GAAP operating ratio performance.^[1] Drivers of this improvement versus previous expectations included higher revenue, lower diesel fuel prices and improved cost performance.

“December carloadings were stronger than expected, led by international container imports,” said Rob Knight, Executive Vice President and Chief Financial Officer. “We are also encouraged to see improved cost performance driven by early results from our Unified Plan 2020 implementation.”

The Company will report its fourth quarter 2018 earnings on Thursday, January 24, at approximately 8:00 a.m. Eastern Time, followed by a conference call that will be broadcast live over the Internet and via teleconference at 8:45 a.m. Eastern Time.

[1] Includes the retrospective adoption of Accounting Standard Update (ASU) 2017-07 related to the presentation of the components of net periodic pension and other postretirement benefit costs and excludes the impact of the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act (the Tax Act). For a reconciliation of the full-year 2017 operating ratio adjusted for the Tax Act and retroactive adoption of ASU 2017-07, please refer to the following non-GAAP reconciliation:
